Helmets to allow Aguirre twins to continue therapy

NEW YORK—Formerly conjoined twins Carl and Chantice Aguirre have begun wearing custom-built plastic helmets so that the re-building of their skulls could be postponed to allow them to continue therapy that would help them walk and talk, doctors said Friday.

Staying out of the operating room is "a luxury they've earned" by responding so well to the series of major operations that climaxed with their separation last August, said Dr. David Staiffenberg, chief of plastic surgery at the Children's Hospital at Montefiore Medical Center in the Bronx.

"They're just soaking everything up," Staiffenberg said. "They're gaining by the day. The benefits of therapy outweigh the benefits of any of the reconstructive surgeries."

The 3-year-old Filipino boys are taking steps with the aid of little walkers and could be walking on their own "in a month or two," said Dr. Robert Marion, their pediatrician, at a news conference at Montefiore.

There's been much less progress in their speech, however, and Marion said, "We don't really understand why."

Doctors did find some blockage in the boys' ears and have inserted tiny tubes there, a common procedure to relieve pressure and fight infection, in hopes that better hearing might make for better speech.

"They know what people are saying and they understand," said Marion. "They really are cognitively OK." The boys manage a few words, including "hi," "bye" and "thank you," doctors say.

Dr. James Goodrich, the neurosurgeon who led the separation operation, said the slow start "isn't surprising if you consider that they spent 18 months in social isolation in the Philippines, then came to the US and an entirely different language."

In addition, he said, the boys were often sick, "and when you're sick you don't learn," had blocked infected ears, and apparently were "hard-wired together" by the bit of brain they shared and could probably communicate in some form without speaking.

The new white helmets, made of polystyrene on the outside and foam padding on the inside, replaced the twins' heavy bandages on Thursday and "didn't seem to bother them at all," Marion said. They are meant to protect the tops of the boys' heads, where they were once attached and which are now covered only by leathery layers of skin, from normal 3-year-old activity like the fight he witnessed a few days ago.

Marion said he saw the brothers "going at each other" when they were in the same crib.

"They were fighting, grabbing, pushing each other into the bars. They were fine, but it was clear that if we're not going to reconstruct the skulls, they'll need more protection."

When the boys eventually do undergo skull reconstruction—Goodrich said that might happen in the fall—it won't be quite as big a job as anticipated, Staiffenberg said. A few square inches of bone has regenerated on its own in both skulls, he said, a surprising development in children as old as three. AP

Top Sino official coming for talks

THE DEPUTY chief of staff of China's army will hold talks with defense officials in the Philippines in the coming days, the Department of National Defense said Saturday.

Gen. Xing Guangtai, who will be accompanied by senior and mid-level military officers, was also scheduled to meet with President Macapagal-Arroyo, Defense Secretary Avelino Cruz and presidential national security adviser Norberto Gonzales during his May 22-25 trip.

The visit comes on the heels of Chinese President Hu Jintao's state visit last month and indicates a warming of ties between the two countries despite their conflicting claims over the Spratly Islands in the South China Sea.

The defense officials' meeting—the first Manila-Beijing annual defense and security dialogue—is expected to cover regional security, transnational crimes such as drug and people smuggling, as well as terrorism, a DND statement said.

The officials will also formalize the details of a Chinese donation of engineering equipment worth P80 million for the Philippine military's civic action projects, the statement said.

During Hu's visit to Manila in April, the two countries boosted economic cooperation with agreements worth more than $1.5 billion in Chinese loans and investments to the Philippines.

China is the fastest growing market for Philippine exports.

The two countries, along with Taiwan, Vietnam, Malaysia and Brunei, have conflicting claims over the Spratlys, a chain of islands teeming with fish and believed to be rich in oil and natural gas.

During his visit, Hu sought to calm anxieties over China's growing power in the region, saying Beijing seeks "to settle existing differences through dialogue and promote common security through cooperation." AP

Big jueteng joke: Bishop Cruz receives P10-M check

By Sharon Gungay
The 'jueteng' game is a common sight in the streets of Manila.

MANILA (Philippine Daily Inquirer) — Bishop Cruz, who has been receiving P10-M checks from the jueteng game, has been ordered to stop receiving them.

The bishop, who is the head of the Roman Catholic Church in the Philippines, has been receiving the checks since 1995.

The checks are being received by the bishop's office, which is located in the Manila archdiocese.

Gabuco sets up pinweight duel against old foe

By Dennis U. Eroa
INQUIRER Libre sports editor

PUERTO PRINCESA CITY—Palawan sensation Josie Gabuco went all-out in the third and final round and was rewarded with a come-from-behind 64-57 victory over fellow national training pool member Alice Kate Aparri of University of Baguio to enter the pinweight finals of the National Youth and Women's Amateur Boxing Championships Friday night at the Puerto Princesa Coliseum here.

Behind on points in the first two rounds, the 18-year-old Gabuco had the crowd roaring in delight as she threw everything at the surprised Aparri, who was unable to wriggle out of harm's way.

The clash was so close the scoring machine actually scored it a 13-13 deadlock, but the individual scores of the five judges installed Gabuco the winner.

Gabuco's victory lined her up for the gold against fellow national team standout Gretchen Abaniel.

Abaniel owns a 3-2 edge over Gabuco in their head-on clashes, including a victory in last year's pinweight final in Panabo City.

"I want revenge. Gretchen's my friend but I want to beat her," said Gabuco, shy and frail despite her reputation as a fearless fighter.

Ana Lisa Cruz of South Cotabato made it to the lightweight final with a referee-stopped contest win over Mandaluyong's Lee Ocon. She battles Palawena Jonna Nazarino in the final.

Ronijen Sofla of University of Baguio clashes with Johren de la Rosa of South Cotabato for the featherweight gold, while Asian champion Michel Martinez tackles Ofelia Lamitar of Puerto Princesa in the lightweight final.

Lamitar is the wife of three-time Olympian Romeo Brin, also coach of the Puerto Princesa boxing team.

Bets from Panabo, Palawan, Puerto Princesa, Cotabato province, Bago City, Compostela Valley, Kapalong and South Cotabato will slug it out for top honours Saturday night at the end of the event hosted by the Puerto Princesa City council headed by Mayor Edward S. Hagedorn.

Panabo sent five finalists in the kids division, while Puerto Princesa and North Cotabato had four each. The North Cotabato bets were inspired no end after a short visit by Gov. Manny Pinol, a staunch boxing supporter.

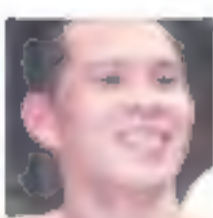

In the cadet class, Panabo boasted of five finalists, while Kapalong, South Cotabato and Cotabato province had two each.

In the schoolboys division, Palawan had four finalists, Bago City three, and Panabo 2. Panabo again had the most number of finalists in the juniors with three, followed by Camiguin, Bago and Palawan with two each.

Meanwhile, Manny T. Lopez, president of the Amateur Boxing Association of the Philippines, praised the City Council for hosting the tournament which aims to identify, recruit and train new talents for the national pool.

Peñalosa-Hurtado showdown May 27

FORMER World Boxing Council super fly king Gerry Peñalosa, now trained by Buddy McGirt in Orlando, Florida, is slated to fight former IBF bantam challenger Reynaldo "El Doberman" Hurtado on May 27 possibly in Pompano, Florida.

PEÑALOSA

Reports from Florida indicated that the 32-year-old southpaw, who will be promoted by Murad Muhammad, is undergoing extensive training under McGirt and is in "the best possible shape" for his upcoming fight.

Peñalosa, who plans to return to the Philippines after the fight, was scheduled to see action in the undercard of the Diego Corrales-Jose Luis Castillo war two weeks ago, but was scrapped from the card.

Dodie Boy Peñalosa, the former two-division world champ who trains his brother in the Philippines, had earlier said the fight with Hurtado been moved to July, but apparently Muhammad was able to snag an earlier date for his ward.

Peñalosa (48-5-2, 33 KOs), who holds the fringe World Boxing Foundation 115-lb crown, will stake his reputation against Hurtado, a native of Colombia, who boasts a 36-6-1 win-loss-draw record with 27 KOs. Salven L. Lagumbay, contributor

Capulan tops duckpin meet

RENE Capulan of NSBA and Cess Ubaña of CADBA scored contrasting victories to rule the men's and ladies' singles event in the recent 39th Grand and 11th Youth national duckpin bowling championships at the Marketplace Center in Mandaluyong City.

Capulan routed Rene Glerna, 242-203, while Ubaña struggled before winning over Rose Layoc in the stepladder finals.

Glerna and Layoc advanced by beating Boying Magday, 122-108, and Janet Ocampo, 116-97, respectively.

NSBA W Lily and CADBA EJ bagged the men's and women's team titles.

Composed of Tony Manghaya, Rolie Abundo and team captain/manager Ricky Santos, NSBA W Lily IV nipped SR Bacolod, 332-331, while CADBA EJ, made up of Cess Ubaña, Len Len de Castro and Emmy Ariola and managed by Beth Pagkalinauan, toppled CADBA Slim, 308-280.

Gerry Ancheta whipped Vicky Paragas, 253-233, to win the seniors' crown while Vener Palma and Franklin Dychinco prevailed in the youth competition.

Palma subdued Joseph Ardales, 183-178, in the 10- to 13-year-old bracket while Dychinco beat Danajo Mahayan, 215-203, in the 14-16 category.

Trafficking in women and children

LITIGATION, including a recent ruling by the Supreme Court, has highlighted the need for India to take steps to protect its women and children from trafficking. The Court's decision in the case of Union of India v. Association of Women Workers in the Textile Industry (2008) is a landmark judgment. It is the first time that the Court has explicitly recognized the right of women to be free from trafficking. The Court also directed the government to take steps to protect women and children from trafficking. The Court's decision is a landmark judgment. The illicit cross-border trade is the ugly face of globalization

By Prashant K. Sharma

After the Supreme Court's landmark judgment in the case of Union of India v. Association of Women Workers in the Textile Industry (2008), the government has taken steps to protect women and children from trafficking. The government has established a National Commission for Women and Children (NCWC) to monitor and coordinate efforts to protect women and children from trafficking. The NCWC has also established a National Helpline for Women and Children (NHWC) to provide a platform for women and children to report cases of trafficking. The government has also taken steps to strengthen the legal framework to protect women and children from trafficking. The government has passed the Trafficking of Women and Children Bill, 2008, which provides for the punishment of those who traffic women and children. The government has also taken steps to strengthen the legal framework to protect women and children from trafficking.

The illicit cross-border trade is the ugly face of globalization. It is a global phenomenon that affects millions of people every year. The trafficking of women and children is a major human rights violation. It is a crime that is often overlooked and underreported. Tobacco to replace 'grass' in Benguet

HEADLINE The Philippine Development Commission has approved a plan to replace the cultivation of opium in Benguet with tobacco. The plan, which was approved by the commission last week, aims to help the province transition from an opium-producing region to a tobacco-growing one. The commission said that the plan would help to reduce the province's dependence on opium, which has been a major source of income for the region for decades. The plan also aims to help to improve the lives of the people of Benguet by providing them with a more sustainable source of income. The commission said that the plan would be implemented in a phased manner, with the first phase focusing on the replacement of opium with tobacco. The second phase would focus on the development of other agricultural products, such as rice and corn. The commission said that the plan would be implemented in a way that would ensure that the people of Benguet are not left without a source of income. The plan would also ensure that the environment is protected and that the people of Benguet are able to live a better life.

Another Bayan Muna leader slain, in Jua member gunned down

HEADLINE A Bayan Muna leader was slain in a shooting incident in Jua, a town in the Philippines. The leader, who was a member of the Bayan Muna party, was shot and killed by a group of armed men. The incident occurred in the town of Jua, which is located in the province of Jua. The Bayan Muna party is a political party in the Philippines that is known for its support of the poor and its opposition to the government. The party has been active in the region of Jua for many years. The leader who was slain was a prominent member of the party and was known for his work in the community. The incident has caused a great deal of concern among the people of Jua and has led to calls for the government to take action to protect the people of the region. The government has said that it is investigating the incident and that it will take appropriate action to bring the perpetrators to justice. The people of Jua are hoping that the government will be able to bring the perpetrators to justice and that the incident will not be a repeat of a similar incident that occurred in the past.

Cavite labor group wants no-strike policy scrapped

HEADLINE A labor group in Cavite, Philippines, has demanded that the government scrap its no-strike policy. The group, which is known as the Cavite Labor Union, has said that the no-strike policy is unfair to workers and that it should be scrapped. The no-strike policy is a law that prohibits workers from going on strike. The law was enacted in the Philippines in the 1970s and has since been a source of controversy. The Cavite Labor Union has said that the no-strike policy is unfair to workers because it prevents them from using their right to strike. The union has said that it wants the government to scrap the no-strike policy and to allow workers to go on strike. The government has said that it is considering the union's demand and that it will take appropriate action to address the union's concerns. The union has said that it will continue to demand that the government scrap the no-strike policy until it is successful.

lived for many years, was recalled to Dumaguete, the capital of Negros Oriental, to manage the business.

"The choices were that we either hire someone to run the business or that I relocate to Dumaguete. It wasn't a difficult choice," says Chinggo, 42, who holds a degree in English and Public Relations from St. Paul University in Manila.

Aside from its loyal work force, Sans Rival is also proud of its loyal clientele. "Our clientele has been very supportive. When we were expanding the store, we thought the customers would stop coming because of the dust and noise, but they kept coming back," Chinggo says.

Now, with the doubled store space, 70 percent of their clients stay and enjoy their snacks inside the shop.

One of the family members also put up the House of Sylvarias in Metro Manila in the early 1970s and has since brought the business to Los Angeles, USA, offering basically the same line of pastries that made Sans Rival a byword among pastry lovers in Dumaguete.

Now, Chinggo plans to expand their menu further by serving lunch. "For our lunch menu, I will again be serving the recipes of my mother."

That should give Dumaguete food lovers something to look forward to.

Yankee in a daze over RP

IT NEVER occurred to me that my recent trip to the Philippines would be exciting.

I came with my girlfriend, Vanessa, and her mother, Evangeline. They were attending the wake of a very close relative, Evangeline's brother and therefore, Vanessa's uncle, who met an untimely death. I understand he was quite healthy.

It was my first trip to the country and I was very excited. After my Philippine sojourn, I can say I was thrilled more than ever, even writing this article because the trip was certainly something money cannot buy. It was worth all the time and the effort.

After the burial, (Tito) Dante set up a trip for us, for me, particularly, to see other parts of the country. Our destinations were Iloilo, Sagada and the Banawe Rice Terraces.

I wished I had more time in my hand because those places were just wonderful. I had the feeling there could be other places in the Philippines just as beautiful as these.

I had to capture everything in my 35 mm camera because the sights were breathtaking. I couldn't afford to let go of them without storing them concretely.

Well, the pictures speak for themselves.

Uniquely wonderful

The Banawe Rice Terraces were simply amazing. No wonder, it is considered the eighth wonder of the world. I could not

These two decisions, both with unanimous support, were extremely significant. In the first, the court ruled that the government could not require a woman to undergo an abortion. In the second, the court ruled that the government could not require a woman to undergo a procedure to prevent her from becoming pregnant.
